FEATURED KEYNOTES

Think Again: Reimagining Education in a Changing World

In this engaging keynote, Michael helps educators separate the practices they have inherited from the values they want to preserve.

Audiences leave ready to:

- rethink assumptions about teaching, learning, and achievement
- navigate change without abandoning what matters most
- approach change with curiosity, creativity, purpose, and possibility

Uncheatable: Authentic assessments in the age of AI

AI has made traditional assessments obsolete. So how can educators respond to academic integrity without watering down curriculum or lowering expectations? Audiences leave ready to rethink why and how they assess students and equipped with practical strategies for designing authentic learning experiences that incentivize integrity and are cheat-resistant by design.

Human-Centered Leadership in the Age of AI

Rapid changes in technology and society can be stressful for educators and often put leaders on the defensive, chasing quick fixes instead of long-term solutions. This keynote explores the role of community, real-world purpose for learning, and strategies leaders can use to align stakeholders with common goals and values.
